

Special Services Corporation (SSC) Adds Another Cirrus to Charter Fleet

June 20, 2017

Greenville, South Carolina

Special Services Corporation, (SSC) announced today that they will be adding a fourth Cirrus SR22 aircraft to its Charter Fleet.

SSC's clients enjoy chartering the small but luxurious aircraft for business or recreational travel because of the flexibility, range, safety record and budget-friendly cost. The aircraft are available for rental to licensed pilots or full-service charter with one of SSC's professional pilots.

The Cirrus SR22 is a four-seat aircraft with interior amenities similar to a luxury automobile. It also includes some of the latest and most innovative safety features, including the famous parachute that has brought aircraft safely to the ground in several high-profile news stories, including the incident captured on video last year where a father and daughter walked away after their Cirrus was brought safely to the ground by a parachute eight miles from their destination. (<http://www.flyingmag.com/another-cirrus-parachute-deployment-caught-on-video>) This aircraft can land on very small airstrips convenient to business and recreational destinations in the southeastern United States. Weather permitting, popular destinations as far away as New York, Detroit, New Orleans, Florida and the Bahamas can typically be reached without a fuel stop.

For a small family or business trip for 2 or 3 people, the cost of chartering this small plane can be comparable to an airline ticket, but without the inconveniences of airline travel, such as planning your trip around scheduled destinations, making connections, and long lines for security or customs.

Generally since chartered flights in the Cirrus can fly direct and use small airports, passengers can arrive much closer to their intended destination. SSC makes arrangements for ground transportation, catering and other amenities convenient for travelers.

"This is really like the difference between traveling in your own car versus traveling via public transportation." indicated traveler Paula Williams. "You're much more productive if you can shave several hours off the travel time and get there faster, and have the privacy to work, sleep or enjoy your family in transit, depending on whether you're traveling for business or pleasure. Time is the only thing we can't make more of, so being able to spend your time the way you want is not a luxury, it's a necessity!"

Unlike many charter companies that have high pilot turnover, customers that fly with SSC often develop long relationships with their "own" pilot. Pilots at SSC stay with the company an average of 10 years or longer, which is very unusual in what can be a turbulent industry.

"We do our best to take care of our pilots, which means they do their best to take care of 'their' passengers." noted Doug Goldstrom, President of Sales and Marketing for SSC.

Customers agree. "I am very comfortable engaging SSC for charter services, and absolutely recommend their service to others." Indicated Cliff Jenkins, Consultant, Trans World Compliance Group, LLC.

About Special Services Corporation (SSC)
